RIVER DEVELOPMENT AND FLOOD CONTROL (Film-strip) Middle West Service Co., 1953.
55 fr., b&w, 35 mm.

Summary: Examines methods of flood prevention, including terracing, planting of deep-rooted crops, and simple flood control dams. Explains the features of large flood control dams, irrigation dams, power dams, and multi-purpose dams. Points out that multi-purpose power dams will often be regulated so that no storage space is left in the dam basin for use in time of flood, and recommends construction of upstream flood prevention measures rather than wide-spread construction of large downstream dams.
